Black Friday and Cyber Monday

Do you like to go shopping? If so, then you should head out on the day after Thanksgiving, as that is the biggest shopping day of the year. Do you prefer to do your shopping online? If so, the Monday after Thanksgiving is the biggest online shopping day of the year. How did these two days of the year become the biggest shopping days of the year?

What is Black Friday?

The Friday after Thanksgiving is known to be called Black Friday. This day signifies the beginning of the holiday shopping season. Many stores open very early that morning (or sometimes even the night before) and have large sales on the most popular items of the gift-giving season. But where did the term "Black Friday" come from? Many people think that this term comes from the term "black," meaning a business is profitable. As opposed to the term "in the red," meaning a business is losing money instead of earning money. However, this is not the case. In the past, the term "black" was associated with the days of the economy not doing well. The first Black Friday happened in 1869. Two businessmen, Jay Gould and James Fisk, were at the root of this first Black Friday. They were buying gold in hopes that if the price got high enough, then they could sell it and make a large amount of money. Eventually, the price of gold fell abruptly, and many people lost a lot of money. The economy suffered greatly because of this. A similar situation happened again on October 29th, 1929. The stock market crashed that day, and this was the start of the Great Depression.

What is Cyber Monday?

The Monday after Thanksgiving is referred to as Cyber Monday. While Black Friday is the day after Thanksgiving, Cyber Monday is when retailers hold their biggest online sales. The first Cyber Monday took place in 2005. Many people were looking for
